Detailed Action

Claim Objections

1. The numbering of claims is not in accordance with 37 CFR 1.126 which requires the original numbering of the claims to be preserved throughout the prosecution. When claims are canceled, the remaining claims must not be renumbered. When new claims are presented, they must be numbered consecutively beginning with the number next following the highest numbered claims previously presented (whether entered or not).

Misnumbered Claims 6-26 have been renumbered to 5-25. Any references to Claims below have taken into account the new numbering.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 2. Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Trompower et al(US Patent #6,088,591). Regarding Claims 1 and 5 Trompower et al discloses a method and system where base stations exchange hopping sequences information using a backbone connection(Abstract).

Regarding Claims 2, 3, 16, 19-20, Trompower et al discloses the use of a wired twisted pair network or wireless means to exchange hopping sequences(Column 8, Line 37-40).

Art Unit: 2634

Regarding Claims 4 and 14, Trompower et al discloses that "after performing the priority fast scan in step 626, the processor 200 goes to step 628 in which it determines if a base station 154, 156 providing a better signal than the current base station was identified in step 626. If yes, the processor 200 proceeds to step 630 in which, having locked on to the hopping sequence of the identified base station 154,156 in step 626, the processor 200 causes a registration request packet to be transmitted to the identified base station." (Column 30, Lines 20-38) The transmission of the registration request packet is equivalent to checking whether or not a mobile device has been handed over. It is also an indication of the second base station, or first master, is receiving the signal from the slave device.

Regarding Claims 6 and 7, Trompower et al discloses the method of handing over a mobile terminal from one base station to the other after hopping sequences have been exchanged(Column 9, Lines 47-51).

Regarding Claims 8, 9, and 25 Trompower et al describes the method of handing off a mobile terminal once the signal strength falls below a threshold value(Column 31, Lines 44-48).

Regarding Claim 10 and 17, Trompower et al describes the updating of roaming tables of mobile stations, which in turn later update other base stations and terminals after handoff(Column 24 lines 21-43). Therefore "neighboring" base station tables are updated using this method.

Regarding Claims 11, 13, 18, and 21, Trompower et al describes the mobile devices in his system being able to send beacon packets to base stations with updated hopping sequences when moving to a new cell. More specially, "As is explained below in connection with FIGS. 15A-15B, a mobile terminal 166 which newly registers with a base station 154, 156 transmits a mobile terminal update packet to the new base station 154, 156 which includes current hopping sequence timing information and test pattern information for the base station 154,156 with which the mobile terminal 166 was previously registered."

(Column 24, Lines 44-54) Since base stations also send there information to each other through the backbone as disclosed above, it can be inferred that the mobile stations, or

"slaves", are in fact sending their hopping sequences to base stations, or "masters", in other cells.

Regarding Claim 12, Trompower et al describes the switching of hopping sequences of the mobile terminal during handoff(Column 2, Lines 31-37).

Regarding Claim 15 and 24, Trompower et al describes the use of sending beacon packets to exchange hopping sequences(Column 3, Lines 27-30).

(Column 10, Lines 9-32). The acknowledgment of signal reception in Claim 23 was a noted method in the paragraphs above.
